Choire Tza.—We tender our warmest thanks to Mesars. Afong & Achuck for two boxes of their finest ten—such as is said to grace only the tables of the mandarins and other digulatories of the Celestial Empire. This ten is the crop of 1874, imported by the bark Edward James. 50 days from Honekong. the bark Edward James, 50 days from Hongkong. and makes the most delicious of drinks. Chimmer inform us that in gathering tea, each tree is visited by three pickers. The first takes the uppermost leaves, which are the choicest and yield the finest flavor; the second takes those lower down, and the third gathers the lowest and all that the two first have left. The greatest care is taken to preserve these three grades separate. Only experts can tell which is the choicest, though there is great difference in the various qualities. Tens purchased of this firm may be depended on as the very best-pure as gold, and delicious as nectar.

ROSEBANK.-This well-known property, the home stead of the late Mr. Wyllie, located in Nunann Val ley, has recently changed hands for $3,000. During Mr. Wyllie's occupancy, It became famous for the many distinguished guests who honored him with their company. At one period, Her Majesty Queen Dowager Emms spent several months there, and for her special accommodation, the proprietor erected a castellated chamber, overlooking the valley scenery. At another time Lady Franklin and Miss Cracroft were guests in this pretty cottage. Here also met the fabled "Tea and Twaddle Society," which Mr. Wyllie provided so liberally and so sportively for, and in whose honor be had a crest and initials painted on the ceiling of his parlor. Those days of pleasant memory have all passed away, with many of the mementoes of its occupant, and the premises have been greatly improved; but "Rosebank" still remains as then a "bachelor's hall."

ABOUT "INSECTIVOROUS BIRDS."-We have a date tree in our yard, which just now is laden with rich Smyrna dates. We had begun to enjoy the fine fruit, cathering perhaps a plateful a day, when one more ing, about ten days since, we were awaked with a wild chattering and noise which indicated a "row" in the neighborhood. On going out we found the date tree filled with a flock of from one to two hundred miner birds, chattering and singing as they pecked away at the juscious Truit, each seeming to say to its mate, "I've found it, come and get all you want." Such a sight we have not witnessed since seeing the flocks of pigeons in the woods in Amerien many years since. Our little visitors were per feetly jally over their newly discovered feasting place, and we have not had the heart to drive them away. So every morning they flock there from all parts of the city, and get their breakfast, and enjoy a right good time over their dates. After that is over, we suppose they hunt after bugs, worms, &c., but we doubt whether they find many, for the dates have satisfied the appetites of these "insectivorous"
